

In History, we took ourselves back in time to the Stone Age, where we went outside to build ourselves shelters. We used all the resources available to us to create our shelters.

Some of us became archaeologists and discovered some fascinating artefacts.

